Guinness World Records Gobsmacked by Corn Roast Queue

By Eva Cuddihy

Engineers took over Guelph Lake Conservation Area last week with promises of endless corn; much to their dismay, all they found was an endless line. With their tummies grumbling, 400 covie-clad students enjoyed local craft beer, live music, and good company, all from the least organized, most budge-filled line in history.

“I love Korn, I can’t believe the band came to Guelph!” said soon to be disappointed first year, Gavin Mercer. We also interviewed a Waterloo engineer, but couldn’t be bothered to listen to his response.

There was general outrage surrounding the fact that the complimentary green cups did not change colour when filled with beer, but it was later discovered that it would only transform for the “pure of heart”. Finally, by the end of the night, Franklin was terrorizing the corn line and guzzling down as many cobs as he could. All in all, it was a Corn Roast to be remembered, and the engineering community is already looking forward to next year where they will be sure to eat a 4 course meal beforehand.

Editors note: big thank you to Trista and everyone who put on corn roast, it was great. Unfortunately, we are a satire newspaper and need the content, so we make a lot of fun of it this issue. Thanks and sorry xoxo

Phrases I've Incorporated into my Daily Lexicon

By Helia Minaian

I'm breaking my silence. Well not really, I had an article in Issue #O, but I am officially back.

1. "This is the year of us"

It's my third year of engineering. I have a million responsibilities. How will I balance them all? Find the person nearest to you, look them in the eyes, and say, "This is the year of us". All problems will be solved.

2. "Are you microaggressing me right now"

Best used when it is used in the most random contexts. "Have you started studying for X class yet?" "Are you microaggressing me rn?". Makes the other person confused and it's a good time for everybody, and I'm having a lot of fun with this one.

3. Hashtags

Guys, using hashtags this year is #in. So fun, accentuates a point #AccentuatesAPoint, and overall a fun time. I use this one in person audibly as well as in texts. Very fun, and I am glad to personally bring them back. #Hashtag

4. Bang

I was saying this before anyone else (cough cough Franklin). Passed a midterm you weren't feeling hot about? BANG. Had a good sandwich? BANG. Finally finished an O'Snap article you agreed to write weeks ago? BANNGGG.

5. "Can I have you on Find My Friends"

Just made a new friend in class? Don't ask for their phone number or Instagram, its unoriginal. Stand out by asking for their live location for an indefinite period of time. You end up closer to them (literally) than you would by becoming follower #861 in their phone. I'm currently up to 23 people, and I wouldn't have it any other way. I periodically check on my little sims and make sure they're where they are supposed to be, otherwise they get an Ominous Message in their inbox FROM ME. #GetStalked

To Be Frank, Issue #2: Kicking it into high gear, or else

By Franklin Goodfellow

To Be Frank is this years version of an editorial. I (Frank) have set aside time every other week to enjoy a beer at Brass Taps (or elsewhere) and write about whatever is on my mind.

O'Week, check, Corn roast, check, HoCo, check. With September nearing an end, reality begins to set in whether I like it or not. As a seasoned procrastinator I've crunched the numbers and realized this is the week that determines my mental health come early December. In previous years I may have said that I had plenty of time and that all can be forgiven if I just do well on the final. Believe it or not though, I have changed and would prefer not need above a 40 on all of my finals.

So you're wondering 'what's the plan then? what are you gonna change?' Well curious little reader, I have a trick up my sleeve. The secret to getting anything done is lying to yourself. Any frequent reader knows that I hate doing work. I would much rather play minecraft or go fly a kite. So in order to get myself to feel motivated to do my work (because the fear of failing apparently is not strong enough), I tell myself that its a competition. There's few things I dislike more than weekly assignments and taking notes, and one of those things is losing. Beyond that, I hate losing to myself. Knowing you that you are studying for an exam you need to pass because of your own actions is a misfortune I wish upon few individuals. Therefore, anytime I don't want to do something, I just think of what I would normally do and do the opposite*.

If all goes to plan, I should "win" against my previous self and develop some good habits along the way. As a disclaimer though, in case you think this is some sort of self improvement scheme, you're wrong. This is entirely fueled by an unhealthy competitive nature and the hair loss of previous exam seasons. Time to get to work, or else.

*I am realizing the eary similarity to a George storyline from a Seinfeld episode

Beer of Paper #2: Kozel Premium Lager

I have a fun way to treat myself for attending an almost full week of classes. You start by taking $20 and buying the cheapest 6 pack you can find. This usally runs you about $11 give or take. Then with the remainder of the $20, you go to the craft beer section and pick whatever beers have the coolest design on them. Worst case scenario, you choke down a beer that looks cool, best case scenario, you find a new beer that looks and taste good.

When I'm unsure what to choose, I usually go for cans that have a lot of gold in their design. It usually points me towards a crisp full bodied lager. My most recent discovery has been Kozel Premium Lager. After doing some research, this beer is pretty awesome. To start, it has this badass goat holding a beer on the can. When I went to find a picture of the can online, I discovered these shweet ram head beer steins. This Czech lager tastes as good as it looks and will certainly end up in my hand again soon enough.

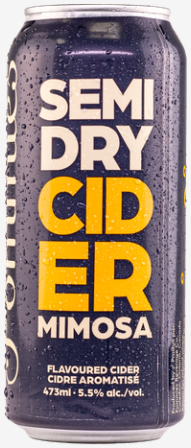

That's How Eva C's It, Issue #2: HoCorn Roast Review

By Eva C

I mean wow. First corn roast in the books. Chitted and also chatted. Made some new friends (hi Sarah, hi Caitlyn), and some new enemies (you know who you are). Drank some cider. Choked down half a beer when they ran out of cider. Had some sort of allergic reaction to the corn while shucking but popped a Reactine (thank you Dhruv) and rallied onwards; it's gonna take more than just a rash to tear me away from drinking in a field with my buddies.

Hoco on the other hand was a living nightmare. 12 hours of mediocre darties and feeling like shit. 20% calling friends to figure out plans and 80% walking there. A street party that will almost certainly have no repercussions for next year. Eventually, I went home and watched Spiderman to finish off my evening on a far more positive note.

Next week is gonna hit like a truck and I can't wait to realize I'm in some serious studying debt. The midterm man is banging on my door and I owe him a lot of money. Thankfully, I'll be too busy giggling and handing out O'SNAPs to hear him. Cheers to another week, readers, and best of luck on the next 2 months of hell.

And that's how Eva C's it.

Cider 2: Pommies Mimosa Cider

This was one of the ciders on offer at Corn Roast. Good amount of sweetness, and paired well with the corn. Supposedly had some sort of mimosa influence but kinda just seemed like a good old fashioned apple cider to me. I'd give it a 3.5/5 if I cared enough to make a half star graphic. Alas.

Out of Context Quotes

Prof say something in class? Lab partner phrase something a little odd? Submit your quotes to O'SNAP.

"I am against women in engineering" -Franklin, unprompted

"I don't know who told me to do a PhD but if I remember I will never forgive them" -Regretful TA

"I don't have that meat to sustain me" - Maya, proud vegetarian

"If you feel an itch later in your butt it's me" - Helia

"I could eat a third slice if it really comes down to it" - anonymous starving student at first club meeting

"I'm 2/2 on blacking out at corn roast" - hungover engineer

"I'm gonna do the assignment this way, but I don't know how it gives the right answer so I recommend not doing it this way" - TA that knows what's going on

Bi-Weekly Meme Recap

Biological

Spend some extra time focusing on your financials in these coming weeks. Might be good to do some budgeting to make sure you can still eat after blowing millions on alcohol this weekend.

Systems and Computing

Biomedical

I heard a rumour that your lifelong situationship wants you back. You should probablyyyy text them. Nothing could possibly go wrong. I promise.

Environmental

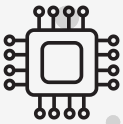

With the worst weekend of your life behind you, get ready for the best week of your life ahead. Huge things coming for you this week. Massive. Enormous.

Mechanical

You may be getting the sense that something is missing from your life. The solution is obvious: take up a new hobby to distract from studying for midterms. All the assignments are common sense anyways.

Computer

There is a dark energy on your horizon this week. Unfortunately, it seems to be Signals and Devices. Get to work, buddy. You're already streets behind.

Mechatronics

On your ever growing to do list, here's one more thing you should add: shower. Maybe put on a layer of deodorant too while you're at it.

Civil

As you settle into your new life at Guelph, take a moment to reflect on your eating habits. A vegetable or two wouldn't hurt. No, tomato sauce on your Creelman pizza doesn't count.

Water Resources

The stars point towards a betrayal in your near future. The culprit? Your idiot lab partner. Make sure to not rely on their IQ too heavily.

dear Bunsen...

Have a question you're too scared to ask your professors, classmates, housemates, or parents? Ask your friend Bunsen - rich in experience (and wit). No question is too unusual or outlandish. Just don't come running back crying if the answer isn't what you expected. The truth can be a hard pill to swallow.

I was chucking stuff at chancellors on homecoming and threw my phone on accident. How do I get it back?

Dear moron,

Maybe this is a good time for you to think about your actions and consider never reproducing.

-Concussed Bunsen

Dear Bunsen,

My roommate and best friend of 12 years and I had a big fight and now we aren't speaking. I'm thinking about moving out. Help?

-#1 oshap fan

Dear Groupie,
This has never happened before in the history of first year roommates. Congrats on having an original experience!
-Bunsen

Dear Bunsen,

I have been shitting corn for 4 days. My colon is begging for mercy please help.

-Toilet's worst nightmare

Dear shithead,

If you want to stop a leak just get a plug.

From Bunsen

I have a midterm next week for a class I've been to twice. Am I cooked?

Dear academic,

Well if the midterm is in class that's technically three times. Should be fine.

Best of luck, Bunsen

Calling all students (especially you, engineers!) - can you read, write, or use a camera? Have some opinions you think the entire CoE should know about? Okay with working for free on top of paying thousands of dollars to do school work that will never help you in your day-to-day life? If you think you have what it takes, email submissions to fgoodfel@uoguelph.ca. Opinion pieces, conference reflections, advice, memes, comics, and more are all welcome*. Submissions for the next edition are due two weeks from this one. Submissions can be published anonymously or under a pseudonym (For the mechs, that means a fake name).
